Some descriptions of what it can feel like:

- Lightheaded
- Floaty Feeling
- Unexpected feeling of happiness during play
- Feeling , during play, or thinking you would do anything your partner asks
- Feeling of complete submission
- Like sinking into the physical sensations
- Seeing each sensation in your mind as a colour
- blocking everything but the sensation and your partners voice
- Pain play causes tingling sensations
- Feeling as if you do not need to externally react to the pain sensation (internalizing)
- Surreal feeling
- Burst of energy or emotion during play

Subspace is :

A psychological state that can sometimes be entered by the person bottoming in the scene.

What that feels like varies from person to person; it varies for a person from situation to situation as well.

There is no right or wrong way to experience subspace and not all people will enter this state.

This can be from light feelings to heavy, happen by choice or suddenly. All at once or just bits and pieces. You may not be able to talk, or talking may bring you back. You may seem stoned to anyone watching, hell you might feel stoned.

(Do not confuse this with disassociation. Dissasociation is when we retreat into our brain to escape trauma, seen by those suffering extreme trauma. This is not the same)

Why does it happen?

Our brain is amazing, really. When we experience intense sensation we are flooded with feel good chemicals, such as endorphins. This flood blocks sensations of pain, and induces a feeling of euphoria.

We experience a similar reaction to sexual pleasure (orgasm) and intense exercise. With BDSM that euphoric feeling can be extended with the continuation of stimulation.

The other end of this is as the dopamine drops off another neurotransmitter is released that can cause "drop". (see Subdrop Brochure)

IT DOES NOT TAKE MUCH TO TRICK THE BRAIN INTO THIS!!

Subspace can be a beautiful experience, providing that you understand this is a normal reaction to intense stimulation. If your bottom seems to be in the space, be careful. He/she may not recognize the shift from fun pain to dangerous pain. When you wind down play, do so slowly and allow them to come to themselves when they are ready. Wrapping your sub/bottom in a blanket and telling them they did well can be very helpful.!
